

There are currently seven supportive housing buildings operating across Kelowna, all provide homes to people experiencing homelessness who have gone through an assessment process.

